In March 2016 Hoob records is releasing part two, "AERIALS" of the composer and jazz singer Lina Nybergs trilogy with new music about the world, the elements and the music itself. This time Lina sings of avians, pilots, winds and astronauts.

The record includes commissioned work for string quartet as well as poetic and expressive interpretations of jazz standards as "Fly me to the moon" and "Bye bye Blackbird" with her regular band.

The first CD in the trilogy "SIRENADES" with music for big band recieved raving reviews at th release 2014. Lina Nyberg is one of Sweden's most creative and innovative jazz singers. For about 20 years she has been attracting consistent and widespread attention, in Scandinavia, but also in many other parts of the world. In March 2011 Lina Nyberg was awarded the prestigious Jazzmusician of the Year-prize by the Swedish Radio "...one of the strongest voices in Swedish Jazz. A unique singer, composer and lyricist that both touches the audience and has a strong sense of humour. A personality on the stage that Swedish Jazz can not do without."

Down beat (4 1/2 stars) June 2014: "Nyberg's incredible command of the lyrics and music, and compelling musical vision make this ambitious storytelling project riveting."

JAZZTIMES after Berlin Jazzfest Germany : "Nyberg cooks up new flavors in the vein of jazz--inspired art pop, a fresh sound very much worth seeking out."

All About Jazz: "...playful and whimsical but also thoughtful and profound; carefully arranged, melodic and even sentimental, but also borders fearlessly with the experimental... The Sirenades is a most inspiring, profound work of art..."
